

Self-styled

Etienne Dumont, a journalist from Geneva, Switzerland, has some of the most stunning body modifications in the world. He is tattooed from head to toe with vibrant images including skulls, flowers and animals, but most striking are the designs covering his face and a hole stretched in his chin, held open by a transparent disk through which you can see his teeth. He also has a synthetic horn implant protruding from his scalp and has also used progressively larger disks to stretch his earlobes.

